

Compact solutions for complex processes

The products of flexis AG offer continuous and integrated sales and production planning

For more than ten years flexis AG has been a solution provider for variant-rich mass production. Based on this experience and a global reference list flexis AG is a competent discussion partner for all topics in sales and operation planning, production and logistics planning, as well as operational control topics.

On the basis of standardized solution modules flexis AG develops and implements customer oriented solutions, which allow a lean customer order process as well as continuous and integrated sales and production planning. Modeled on the Toyota Production System, flexis supports planning and control of synchronized production processes and their supply according to the pull principle.

The approach of flexis AG does not end there, but includes the relevant value added chain from the supplier to the customer. The solutions of flexis AG have been in use for years at global companies like Daimler, VW, MAN, and CNH – from long term capacity planning to short term sequencing flexis offers an integrated solution spectrum for optimizing the customer order process. Special focus is on harmonizing the planning, so that imminent bottlenecks and overcapacities as well as their causes are transparent early on.

More productivity thanks to greater planning reliability

Only when challenges are transparent early on and all necessary information can be accessed any time, one can react cost-effectively and reasonably. In the planning period as well as for preparing goal oriented reactions, flexis AG's technology includes a comprehensive sandbox component, in which different scenarios can be simulated. This allows early and specific decisions. Companies which build products with high complexity appreciate the advantages and benefits of flexis solutions. High flexibility when considering individual customer requirements as well as the competency of flexis AG in efficient goal implementations make sure that lot size optimization and inventory reduction with a simultaneous increase of productivity is possible. The strength of flexis AG lies in the focus on the processes on the planning level and their clear separation from the transactional level.

This cooperative approach is the basis for the longtime and intensive teamwork with our customers. We identify with customers and together with them we develop an efficient and future proof process. We accompany you from the design of process and goal oriented solutions to the maintenance of installations.

flexis AG Product Portfolio Overview

The best of breed solution modules of flexis AG cover all areas of the customer order process.
The modular overall concept facilitates incremental implementation.

The solutions have been successfully in use for many years at international businesses such as Audi, Daimler and MAN. From Sales Planning to Sequencing in the short-term horizon, flexis offers an integrated solution spectrum for optimizing the customer order process.

The strengths of flexis AG are as follows:

- We speak your language: process know-how from project planning to implementation.
- We orientate ourselves to your requirements: from a modular concept of flexis solutions to a step-by-step rollout.
- Our solutions are proven and tested through customer application: we offer standardized “best of breed” solution modules.
- The process defines the software: from customizability of the workflows and optimization techniques to complete customer orientation when implementing the processes.
- Low project costs and quick implementations: lean processes from design to Go-Live.
- Easy integration with existing system environments: open interface to e.g. SAP/ERP.
